Red Armies Drive Into Manchuria

SOVIET FORCES COLLIDE WITH CRACK JAP UNIT

Million Or More Russians Attacking Along 2,000 Mile Front

ADVANCE SEVERAL MILES

Tokyo Broadcasts Tell Of 'Sharp Fighting'; Soviets Strike Quickly

By United Press

A Red army of 1,000,000 or more men crashed into Manchuria from the east and west at key points along a 2,000-mile front today and—Tokyo said—collided head-on in battle with Japan's crack Kwantung army.

Allied sources in Chungking said the Soviets already were several miles inside Manchuria at a number of points.

Radio Tokyo said that Russian forces had crossed into Manchuria from the East along a 300-mile stretch of the Siberian border from Hunchun, 80 miles west of Vladivostok, to Huto, 250 miles north of Vladivostok.

In the west, Tokyo said, the Russians forced the border at Manchukuo, 50 miles east of the outer Mongolian border.

The garrison forces of Japan and Manchukuo (Manchuria) have engaged the invaders for self-defense and fighting is in progress," Japanese imperial headquarters reported in another Tokyo broadcast.

Another enemy broadcast spoke of "sharp fighting" in all areas.

Red Planes In Action

Tokyo said Red air force bombers, roaring out ahead of the advancing ground forces, bombed the communications centers of Hailan, Harbin, Chiamusso, and Kirin in Manchuria and Rasin and Genzan in northern Korea.

Russia exploded her first far eastern offensive of World War II only a few minutes after her declaration of war against Japan took effect at midnight. Tokyo said the assault began at 12:10 a. m.

The Japanese version indicated the offensive was taking the shape of a giant pincer from east and west aimed perhaps at cutting Manchuria in two.

Japan moved swiftly to rally puppet forces in Manchuria. Radio Tokyo said the Manchukuoan puppet government at 4 a. m. proclaimed a defense decree for the entire nation against "the Soviet army's unlawful invasion."

Jap Homeland Now Open To Sustained Air Raids From All Directions

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9—Russia's entry into the Pacific war today opened the Japanese homeland to sustained air attacks from all directions.

Air bases in eastern Siberia will permit bombing planes to smash at Hokkaido, northeaviest of the enemy's home islands, which has been relatively free from air attacks. The bases will also fill the one weak gap in the blockade around Japan; planes can now sweep the northern end of the sea of Japan where up to now enemy shipping has been able to slip through to Korea.

It remains to be seen whether U. S. as well as Russian planes will use Siberian bases. We have no bases in Siberia now.

Undoubtedly the question of coordinating the strategy and war effort of the Russians with the American and British figured in the military discussions at Potsdam. This may have included the use of Siberian air bases.

Reds Move Fast

Military observers foresaw early destruction of Japan's military might in China and Manchuria by the blitzkrieg-gearred Russian Far Eastern army. This might come within a matter of months if the Japanese don't yield before then. Russia, it was said, obviously has been assigned the job of dealing with Japan's continental army, thus relieving the United States of a terrific burden.

REDS AND ALLIES CHANGE SIDES FOR NIPS' FINISH

MANILA, Aug. 9—Gen. Douglas MacArthur, commander of American forces in the Pacific, said today that Russia's war declaration against Japan "will make possible a great pincer movement which cannot fail to end in the destruction of the enemy."

MacArthur said he was delighted with the news, and added:

"In Europe, Russia was on the eastern front, the Allies on the west. Now the Allies are on the east and Russia on the west, but the result will be the same."

NEW YORK, Aug. 9—The board of the National Association manufacturers recommended today that price, wages and rationing controls be lifted six months after munition production has declined two-thirds below the level prevailing in April, 1945.

The board proposed that monthly war production board index of munitions production be used as a great pincer movement which cannot fail to end in the destruction of the enemy."

The index was 105 in April, the NAM said. Under its proposed test, controls would end six months after the index declined to 35. The index is estimated six months ahead and it predicted 77 for December shortly before the announcement of the atomic bomb.

"You know as much about it as I do but it looks to me like it will put us pilots out of business and begins to look like planes in the next war won't have pilots."

"In Europe, Russia was on the eastern front, the Allies on the west. Now the Allies are on the east and Russia on the west, but the result will be the same."

TRUMAN MEETS WITH ADVISORS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9—President Truman today summoned his key policy makers to a White House conference with him and the men who perfected the atomic bomb.

He had conferred earlier with two home front chiefs—War Production Chairman J. A. Krug and Price Administrator Chester Bowles.

The President's action, apparently hastily decided on, forced indefinite postponement of a War department press conference which had been expected to produce further information for the public on the super-secret atomic weapon.

Called to the White House were Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, and four of the men most intimately connected with the development of the atomic bomb. These men were:

GIs ON OKINAWA JUBILANT; TALK OF GOING HOME

OKINAWA, Aug. 9—American troops were whistling and singing on Okinawa today. The announcement of the atomic bomb, eyewitness reports of the devastated city and the news of Russia's entry into the war convinced them that the end of the war was in sight.

They already are talking about going home. No one can believe that Japan will continue the war.

Generals and their staffs were equally jubilant over the dramatic turn of the war.

Lt. Gen. James Doolittle reiterated a statement made recently that the Japanese had one chance to quit and still save face when Germany surrendered. "Russia's declaration gives them another chance," he said.

Doolittle insisted the atomic bomb was as big a surprise to him as it was to the troops. He told correspondents:

"You know as much about it as I do but it looks to me like it will put us pilots out of business and begins to look like planes in the next war won't have pilots."

Russia, it was said, obviously has been assigned the job of dealing with Japan's continental army, thus releasing the United States of a terrific burden.

The Japanese have an estimated 2,000,000 men in China and Manchuria. The Russians reportedly have 1,000,000, but with many times that number of battle-seasoned veterans in reserve. Furthermore, the Japanese are being harassed even now by the increasingly aggressive Chinese forces of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

There is also the Chinese Communist army, with its well-disciplined forces.

Therefore, the letter added, Krug should "continue the following program" which he already has been carrying out:

Little or no direct help in invasion of the Japanese homeland it self is likely from Russia.

Siberia Ideal For Air Bases

The potentialities of Siberia in the air war on Japan, long-discussed here, were re-emphasized by a member of the U. S. Navy's high command—Rear Adm. John H. Cassady, assistant deputy chief of naval operations for air.

WPB Told To Work Toward Orderly Transition From War To Peace

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9—President Truman today ordered the War Production board to emphasize a five-point program to pave the way for an orderly transition from war production to civilian production.

The program, laid down for the WPB some time ago, is "essential to the war production that continues and to the development of a healthy national economy," the President said in a letter to WPB Chairman J. A. Krug.

THIRD FLEET AGAIN POUNDING JAPANESE

The carrier planes still were attacking nine hours later. Tokyo confirmed the raids, said they began at 5:30 a. m. and estimated that more than 1,100 planes were participating.

Honshu Attacked

Another 300 land-based bombers and fighters raided western Honshu for three hours from 9 a. m. to noon Tokyo time, Japanese broadcasts said. Part of the attacking force appeared over atom-bombed Hiroshima and nearby Yamaguchi prefecture and others were sighted over the Iyo sea, off western Shikoku, Tokyo said.

Although there was no immediate Allied confirmation of Tokyo's report of a naval bombardment of Kamaishi, the city was shelled once before—on July 14 by the Third fleet.

Specific targets for the carrier-based assault on northern Honshu also were not disclosed, but it was reported reliably that the Navy fliers were hunting out "hidden airfields" where the Japanese air force has been lying under camouflage in an attempt to escape destruction.

The Japanese were known to be hoarding their last remaining aircraft for a fight to the death against American invasion forces.

Today's far-flung air and sea attacks followed four separate raids by a total of almost 400 Superfortresses against Japan in the previous 24 hours.

The B-29s dropped 2,300 tons of bombs on the Fukuyama industrial area 47 miles northeast of Kure, the Nakashima Musashino-Tama aircraft plant in the Tokyo area, the Tokyo arsenal and the Kyoto steel city of Yawata yesterday.

Three Superfortresses were lost, but good to excellent results were reported at all four targets.

Shimushu Pounded

North of Japan, Army Liberators from the Aleutians bombed the Kataoka naval base at Shimushu in the northern Kuriles yesterday. Navy privateers simultaneously strafed the Torishima islands east of Paramushiru and bombed installations on Onekotan island in the Kuriles.

Other privateers the previous day sank 5,000 tons of enemy shipping and damaged 500 tons in the Tsushima straits between Korea and Honshu. Vessels sunk included a submarine chaser, four small cargo vessels, a trawler and a 200-ton motor schooner.

Night flying Mitchells damage a medium freighter transport and small cargo vessel off the Honshu coast Tuesday.

Far to the east, an American battleship and lighter fleet units bombarded enemy installations on Wake island yesterday, destroying 11 buildings, two ammunition dumps and an anti-aircraft gun emplacements.

Other buildings and gun positions were damaged. The warships suffered no damage.

PRESIDENT WILL TELL OF REDS' WAR AGREEMENT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9—President Truman's radio report to the nation at 10 o'clock tonight will reveal some of the background of Soviet Russia's agreement to join the Allies in the Pacific, White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said today.

The 30-minute address over all networks also will supply additional details of the Big Three Moscow conference, and will deal briefly with the atomic bomb. Ross said the speech would be about 3,600 words long.

The secretary disclosed that first official word of Russia's declaration of war on Japan was transmitted directly to the President and Secretary of State James F. Byrnes at 2:30 p. m. E. W. T., yesterday by Soviet Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov.

It was agreed to announce the development simultaneously here and in Moscow at 3 p. m. Ross said. As it worked out, Washington newsmen got the news to the world a few minutes ahead of Moscow, although the 3 p. m. deadline was not violated.

Once the electrifying word was received from Molotov, Ross said, "We waited only long enough to make sure that the timing was here and Moscow was synchronized."

JAP LEADERS IN EMERGENCY MEET TO STUDY WAR

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 9—The Japanese political association called an "emergency meeting" Thursday afternoon and held an "important conference" relating to the rapidly changing war situation, Tokyo radio reported today in a broadcast recorded by United Press, San Francisco.

Gen. Jiro Minami, president of the association, requested an audience with government and military leaders at the residence of Prime Minister Adm. Baron Kanitaro Suzuki Thursday night, Tokyo said.

Yankee, Red Jap Blows Coordinated

BULLETIN

CHUNGKING, Aug. 9—Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer disclosed today the Russian offensive in Manchuria has been closely coordinated with Allied operations in China and the Pacific. He announced that American-trained Chinese parachute troops have gone into action against the Japanese for the first time.

Wedemeyer disclosed that operations in the China theatre are aimed at assisting the Soviet army by hampering the northward movement of Japanese troops. He said the American command here has been collecting information on Japanese for the Russians for "some time."

Wedemeyer predicted the Japanese now will withdraw from South China as fast as they can move their equipment.

Co-ordination of military efforts with the Russians—now a highly-guarded secret—was on the same scale as that existing between the U. S.-China command and the southeast Asia command of Adm. Lord Louis Mountbatten.

Russia, for her part, had bolstered her far eastern forces with battle-toughened veterans of the fight against Germany in the west and also sent vast quantities of tanks, planes and munitions to the far east.

Reds Well Prepared
It was obvious that the Russians launched their offensive only after long preparations—preparations of the kind that enabled them to advance 200 to 300 miles across Europe before pausing for reinforcements and supplies.

Russian progress was likely to be slower in the Far East than in Europe. The terrain along the Siberian-Manchurian border is rugged and lacks the many roads that bisect the plains of Europe.

Funeral services will be conducted by the Rev. Leroy Wilkins, pastor of the Kingston Methodist church, at the home of his son, Pearl Patrick, near Kingston, Saturday at 3 p. m. Interment will follow in Whisler cemetery, with the L. E. Hill funeral home in charge.

She is survived by two sons, Clarence Patrick and Pearl Patrick, both of near Kingston, five grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

The body may be viewed at the home of Pearl Patrick after 1 p. m. Friday.

COLVILLE FUNERAL

Many relatives and friends from out-of-town attended the funeral of Mrs. G. H. Colville held in the Presbyterian church. The Rev. John Miller, Columbus, officiated and pallbearers were Richard Lucas, Charles Lucas, J. Fred Colville, John Colville, Walter Downing and J. O. Eagleson.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Lincoln, Phoenix, Ariz.; Miss Lillian Lincoln, Phoenix, Ariz.; Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Lucas, Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Lucas, daughter Nancy, son, Stephen, Piqua, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lucas, son, Rodney, Columbus; Mrs. A. J. Cassidy, Zanesville; Mrs. W. M. Corrigan, St. Louis, Mo.; Mrs. O. W. SOLONS WONDER IF THEY WILL BE CALLED BACK

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9—Possibility of an early Japanese surrender stimulated discussion today whether congress should be called back into session before Oct. 8. Most members, however, saw little need for such action as of now.

The decision presumably will rest with President Truman. The White House left the door open, indicating it would depend to a large extent on the speed of developments in the Pacific.

Congress recessed Aug. 1 with the intention of staying away until Oct. 8 unless called back into session earlier by the President or congressional leaders.

White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross told reporters there was nothing in the air at the White House at the present time to indicate that Mr. Truman would reassemble congress. He said that would not necessarily hold true, however, if Japan should collapse "suddenly."

SOVIET FORCES COLLIDE WITH CRACK JAP UNIT

Million Or More Russians Attacking Along 2,000 Mile Front

Another meeting was called for 10 a. m. tomorrow to decide the party's policy to be presented the government and to the high command, Tokyo said.

Allied sources in Chungking confirmed that the Russian offensive was begun and said the Soviets were attacking at three main but so far unidentified points along the 2,000-mile Manchurian-Siberian border.

The Red army already was several miles inside Japanese-occupied territory, Chungking sources said.

Attack Crack Troops

A communiqué from the Kwantung army headquarters in Manchuria indicated that the main attack had been directed against the eastern frontier from the narrow sliver of Siberian territory wedged in between Manchuria and the sea and tipped by Vladivostok.

The Kwantung army, comprising some 750,000 of Japan's toughest and best-trained troops, presumably was waiting for the Soviet attack in long-prepared defences inside the border.

Russia, for her part, had bolstered her far eastern forces with battle-toughened veterans of the fight against Germany in the west and also sent vast quantities of tanks, planes and munitions to the far east.

CHINESE THINK WAR WITH JAPAN IS ALL BUT OVER

CHINESE THINK WAR WITH JAPAN IS ALL BUT OVER

CHUNGKING, Aug. 9—Highest sources here expressed belief today that the end of the Pacific war is at hand as result of the declaration of war by Russia and introduction of the atomic bomb.

Strictest operational secrecy shrouded the attack of the Red banner armies of the Far East but it was learned that Russian-American liaison now is the closest in history.

The Americans were given a full report on Russian tactical plans before the European front have gone into action, it was learned, having been re-deployed eastward along the trans-Siberian railroad in what informed sources called a "tremendous logistic feat."

Battle-wise Soviet troops from the European front have gone into action, it was learned, having been re-deployed eastward along the trans-Siberian railroad in what informed sources called a "tremendous logistic feat."

There was a little surprise here that the Russians jumped off today as it had been expected they would wait until the diplomatic negotiations of Premier T. V.

Soong had been completed in Moscow.

A declaration by Soong and

Premier Josef Stalin is expected in about a week.

It was understood here that in-closely connected with the Russian move. The idea, it was said, now was to pile one catastrophe on top of another until Japan surrenders.

scattered through northern Honshu at dawn, a Pacific fleet communiqué reported.

The carrier planes still were attacking nine hours later. Tokyo confirmed the raids, said they began at 5:30 a. m. and estimated that more than 1,100 planes were participating.

Honshu Attacked

Another 300 land-based bombers and fighters raided western Honshu for three hours from 9 a. m. to noon Tokyo time, Japanese broadcasts said. Part of the attacking force appeared over atom-bombed Hiroshima and nearby Yamaguchi prefecture and others were sighted over the Iyo sea, off western Shikoku, Tokyo said.

Although there was no immediate Allied confirmation of Tokyo's report of a naval bombardment of Kamashi, the city was shelled once before—on July 14 by the Third fleet.

Specific targets for the carrier-based assault on northern Honshu also were not disclosed, but it was reported reliably that the Navy reported that the Navy's air force had been flying under camouflage in an attempt to escape detection.

The Japanese were known to be hoarding their last remaining aircraft for a fight to the death against American invasion forces.

Today's far-flung air and sea attacks followed four separate raids by a total of almost 400 Superfortresses against Japan in the previous 24 hours.

The B-29s dropped 2,300 tons of bombs on the Fukuyama industrial area 47 miles northeast of Kure, the Nakajima Musashino-Tama aircraft plant in the Tokyo area, the Tokyo arsenal and the Kyushu steel city of Yawata yesterday.

Three Superfortresses were lost, but good to excellent results were reported at all four targets.

Shimushu Poundred

North of Japan, Army Liberators from the Aleutians bombed the Kataoka naval base at Shimushu in the northern Kuriles yesterday. Navy privateers simultaneously strafed the Torishima islands east of Paramushiru and bombed installations on Onekotan island in the Kuriles.

Other privateers the previous day sank 5,000 tons of enemy shipping and damaged 500 tons in the Tsushima straits between Korea and Honshu. Vessels sunk included a submarine chaser, four small cargo vessels, trawler and a 200-ton motor schooner.

Night flying Mitchells damage a medium freighter transport and a small cargo vessel off the Honshu coast Tuesday.

Far to the east, an American battleship and lighter fleet units bombarded enemy installations on Wake island yesterday, destroying 11 buildings, two ammunition dumps and an anti-aircraft gun emplacements.

Other buildings and gun positions were damaged. The warships suffered no damage.

PRESIDENT WILL TELL OF REDS' WAR AGREEMENT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9—President Truman's radio report to the nation at 10 o'clock tonight will reveal some of the background of Soviet Russia's agreement to join the Allies in the Pacific. White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said today.

The 30-minute address over all networks also will supply additional details of the Big Three Berlin conference, and will detail briefly with the atomic bomb. Ross said the speech would be about 3,600 words long.

The secretary disclosed that first official word of Russia's declaration of war on Japan was transmitted directly to the President and Secretary of State James F. Byrnes at 2:30 p. m. E. W. T., yesterday by Soviet Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov.

It was agreed to announce the development simultaneously here and in Moscow at 3 p. m., Ross said. As it worked out, Washington newsmen got the news to the world a few minutes ahead of Moscow, although the 3 p. m. deadline was not violated.

Once the electrifying word was received from Molotov, Ross said, "We waited only long enough to make sure that the timing between here and Moscow was synchronized."

JAP LEADERS IN EMERGENCY MEET TO STUDY WAR

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 9—The Japanese political association called an "emergency meeting" Thursday afternoon and held an "important conference" relating to the rapidly changing war situation, Tokyo radio reported today in a broadcast recorded by United Press, San Francisco.

Gen. Jiro Minami, president of the association, requested an audience with government and military leaders at the residence of Prime Minister Adm. Baron Kanro Suzuki Thursday night, Tokyo said.

SOVIET FORCES COLLIDE WITH CRACK JAP UNIT

Million Or More Russians Attacking Along 2,000 Mile Front

Another meeting was called for 10 a. m. tomorrow to decide the party's policy to be presented to the government and to the high command, Tokyo said.

Allied sources in Chungking confirmed that the Russian offensive had begun and said the Soviets were attacking at three main but so far unidentified points along the 2,000-mile Manchurian-Siberian border.

The Red army already was several miles inside Japanese-occupied territory, Chungking sources said.

Attack Crack Troops

A communiqué from the Kwantung army headquarters in Manchuria indicated that the main attack had been directed against the eastern frontier from the narrow sliver of Siberian territory wedged between Manchuria and the sea and tipped by Vladivostok.

Russia, for her part, had bolstered her far eastern forces with battle-toughened veterans of the fight against Germany in the west and also sent vast quantities of tanks, planes and munitions to the far east.

Reds Well Prepared

It was obvious that the Russians launched their offensive only after long preparations—preparations of the kind that enabled them to advance 200 to 300 miles across Europe before pausing for reinforcements and supplies.

Russian progress was likely to be slower in the Far East than in Europe. The terrain along the Siberian-Manchurian border is rugged and lacks the many roads that bisect the plains of Europe.

First word of the attack came from the Tokyo radio in the form of a "flash" bulletin from headquarters of the Kwantung army in Hsinking in central Manchuria at 3:30 a. m. Manchurian time.

The Soviet army suddenly launched an attack against Japanese forces on the eastern Soviet-Manchukuo (Manchurian) border shortly after midnight last night," the dispatch said.

"According to a communiqué released by the Kwantung army headquarters here at 3:30 this morning, Aug. 9, the Soviet army suddenly opened an attack against Japanese forces on the eastern border at 12:10 a. m. with its tanks.

"The communiqué added that simultaneously a small number of Soviet aircraft started bombing attacks on strategic points in Manchukuo territory."

Started Wednesday

Thus fighting started at 6:10 p. m. Wednesday Moscow time—one hour and 10 minutes after Russia notified Japan of her decision to enter the Pacific war—and 11:10 a. m. Wednesday EWT.

The broadcast made it evident that Russia based the effective time of her war declaration—12:01 a. m.—on Manchurian rather than Moscow time.

While Moscow remained silent on the opening of her Manchurian offensive, Allied sources in Chungking quickly confirmed that it was under way.

The enemy account indicated that the Russians were driving west from the vulnerable narrow Vladivostok salient squeezed between northern Manchuria and the sea to lift any Japanese threat to the area.

Most of the industries and population of the Soviet Far East were concentrated along the frontier, with the Amur and Ussuri rivers and the trans-Siberian railway the axis of settlements. Vladivostok is only 20 miles east of the border.

Chungking reported that Soviet-American liaison for the attack was the closest in history, with the Americans completely informed of the Russian tactical plans before the jump-off.

Moscow dispatches said that Russia was preparing to hit "with all its strength" against Manchuria. In recent weeks, Moscow said, there had been a steady flow of men, tanks and planes eastward from the battlefields of Europe to reinforce the already formidable Red banner army of the East.

FORMER VICHY AIR HEAD TESTIFIES FOR PETAIN

PARIS, Aug. 9 — Gen. Jean Bergeret, former Vichy air minister, testified at Marshal Henri Philippe Petain's trial today that the Vichy French kept close tab on German air operations and sent the information gleaned to London.

The 15th day of Petain's trial opened at 1:20 p. m. Bergeret, French air force general, was the first witness of the day, the 23rd for the defense, and the 44th of the trial.

Bergeret told the high court judge and jury that under his Vichy ministry the French air force served as a clandestine intelligence agency for London, keeping the Allies filled in on what the Luftwaffe was doing.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature is warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pines a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons start nagging here and there, causing backache, leg pains, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting, burning or cramping pains are something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give back relief. They will help you pass all of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

ATOMIC BOMB HASTENED RED ENTRY INTO WAR

Truman Clinched Russian Help Against Japs; New Weapon Speeded Move

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9—Soviet participation in the Pacific war was explored by President Roosevelt at Yalta, clinched by President Truman at Potsdam, and then probably speeded up by disclosure that this country had perfected the atomic bomb.

That is the sequence of events toward the climactic phase of the war as indicated by high official quarters.

At the Yalta conference of the big three in February, President Roosevelt may have obtained a virtual promise of Russian entry into the war after Germany was finished. The extent of any such commitment at that time remains to be revealed. Aside from this country's views, it was the opinion of most observers that Russia's self-interest ultimately would bring her into the war.

At any rate, when Mr. Truman went to Potsdam last month he was confident that the Russians would come in. He knew that this was one of the cards that would have to be taken into account in bargaining on things that the Russians wanted. But that was all right, too, because his paramount interest, reiterated many times, was above all else to bring the war to the fastest possible conclusion and thus save as many American lives as possible.

At Potsdam, the American desire for Russian participation in the Japanese war was formalized. As revealed by Secretary of State James F. Byrnes last night, a memorandum of the President's views was presented to Generalissimo Josef Stalin. It recounted the pledges by Russia as a member of the United Nations to help establish and preserve world peace. Mr. Truman's memorandum to Stalin included:

"It seems to me that under the terms of the Moscow declaration and the provisions of the charter, it would be proper for the Soviet Union to indicate its willingness to consult and cooperate with other great powers now at war with Japan, with a view to joint action on behalf of the community of nations to maintain peace and security."

Stalin's formal reply to this is not available. But the facts that the top American, British and Russian military commanders had conferences at Potsdam and that Russia has now entered the war speak for themselves.

There was every indication, however, that the highest quarters here were taken by surprise when the declaration came from Moscow yesterday. They apparently had not expected it until later, perhaps not for some weeks.

An important official expressed belief that success of the American atomic bomb hastened Russian participation. He reasoned that with this great weapon in use against Japan, the Russians might have decided they could go ahead without perfecting all the preparations that they might previously have counted necessary. Or perhaps the Russians wanted to be certain to be in before there was a sudden Japanese surrender.

It is not believed that the Russians were told in advance that this country and Britain were working on the atomic bomb.

WORKERS RETURN TO JOBS AT LOCKLAND AIR PLANT

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 9—The first of 27,000 workers streamed back into the Lockland, O., plant of the Wright Aeronautical Corp. today after striking members of the United Auto Workers (CIO) called off their six-day-old walkout.

The action calling off the strike was taken after Army air forces officials at Wright Field said the walkout was interfering with the Pacific air war and Gov. Frank J. Lausche urged the workers to resume production of B-29 engines.

MEN OF THIRD FLEET EXPECT WAR'S END SOON

By RICHARD W. JOHNSTON
United Press War Correspondent

WITH ADMIRAL HALSEY'S THIRD FLEET OFF JAPAN, Aug. 7—(Delayed)—We got the news about the atomic bomb about noon today. We probably were closer to Japan than any other American force, but we were the last to know.

A full commander sipping a cup of hot coffee said in a wondering tone:

"Why, the war will be over in two weeks."

A seaman first class with gold ring in one ear and a guitar under his arm, said:

"Quit? They gotta quit. This thing will sink the damned island."

Thus the always-pessimistic war front caught up with the usually optimistic home front when it heard about the atomic bomb.

Everybody on this ship tonight is conscious that this world is different from the one which ended last night. Every one is conscious of this—and just a little apprehensive.

Ever since we heard about the atomic bomb, we have been glancing over our shoulders—in the direction of Japan—as if expecting to see Fujiyama soar into the wild blue yonder.

DESPITE BOMBS, NAZIS INCREASED WAR PRODUCTION

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9—Despite years of Allied bombing, Germany was steadily increasing production of many vital war materials right up to the time of her defeat, a captured German document showed today.

The document, the official 1944 report of the Reichsmilitary for armaments and war production, was released by the War Mobilization Subcommittee of the Senate Military Affairs Committee.

It disclosed that three times as many armored fighting vehicles were produced in 1944 as in 1942, more than three times as many fighter-bombers and eight times as many night fighter planes.

The report said that basic production fell off as a result of air damage and loss of territory in the last quarter of 1944 but "it was still possible to keep the armament industry continuously supplied with the necessary material."

Coal and crude steel production fell in 1944 but aluminum, powder and explosives manufacture was greater than in the two preceding years.

Subcommittee Chairman Harley M. Kilgore, D., W. Va., said the report "shows that in spite of Allied bombings Germany was able to rebuild and to expand its factories to increase its war production until the final defeat of the German armies."

"The report," he added, "reaffirms the (committee's) conclusion of July 10th . . . that Germany in defeat remains a major threat to the peace of the world and indicates the extent of the deindustrialization necessary to achieve the objectives enunciated by the Potsdam conference."

ATOMIC BOMB HASTENED RED ENTRY INTO WAR

Truman Clinched Russian Help Against Japs; New Weapon Speeded Move

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9—Soviet participation in the Pacific war was explored by President Roosevelt at Yalta, clinched by President Truman at Potsdam, and then probably speeded up by disclosure that this country had perfect the atomic bomb.

That is the sequence of events toward the climactic phase of the war as indicated by high official quarters.

At the Yalta conference of the big three in February, President Roosevelt may have obtained a virtual promise of Russian entry into the war after Germany was finished. The extent of any such commitment at that time remains to be revealed. Aside from this country's views, it was the opinion of most observers that Russia's self-interest ultimately would bring her into the war.

At any rate, when Mr. Truman went to Potsdam last month he was confident that the Russians would come in. He knew that this was one of the cards that would have to be taken into account in bargaining on things that the Russians wanted. But that was all right, too, because his paramount interest, reiterated many times, was above all else to bring the war to the fastest possible conclusion and thus save as many American lives as possible.

At Potsdam, the American desire for Russian participation in the Japanese war was formalized. As revealed by Secretary of State James F. Byrnes last night, a memorandum of the President's views was presented to Generalsissimo Josef Stalin. It recounted the pledges by Russia as a member of the United Nations to help establish and preserve world peace. Mr. Truman's memorandum to Stalin included:

"It seems to me that under the terms of the Moscow declaration and the provisions of the charter.. it would be proper for the Soviet Union to indicate its willingness to consult and cooperate with other great powers now at war with Japan, with a view to joint action on behalf of the community of nations to maintain peace and security."

Stalin's formal reply to this is not available. But the facts that the top American, British and Russian military commanders held conferences at Potsdam and that Russia has now entered the war speak for themselves.

There was every indication, however, that the highest quarters here were taken by surprise when the declaration came from Moscow yesterday. They apparently had not expected it until later, perhaps not for some weeks.

An important official expressed belief that success of the American atomic bomb hastened Russian participation. He reasoned that with this great weapon in use against Japan, the Russians might have decided they could go ahead without perfecting all the preparations that they might previously have counted necessary. Or perhaps the Russians wanted to be certain to be in before there was a sudden Japanese surrender.

It is not believed that the Russians were told in advance that this country and Britain were working on the atomic bomb.

WORKERS RETURN TO JOBS AT LOCKLAND AIR PLANT

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 9—The first of 27,000 workers streamed back into the Lockland, O., plant of the Wright Aeronautical Corp. today after striking members of the United Auto Workers (CIO) called off their six-day-old walkout.

The action calling off the strike was taken after Army air force officials at Wright Field said the walkout was interfering with the Pacific air war and Gov. Frank J. Lausche urged the workers to resume production of B-29 engines.

SOLONS RATE NEW ATOM BOMB OVER RED MOVE

Legislators Express Belief
War With Japan Will End Very Soon

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9—Congress today welcomed Russia's entrance into the Pacific war but ranked it second to the atomic bomb in hastening victory over Japan.

The twin developments of the week left no doubt in any minds but that the end of the Japanese war is approaching. All agreed that the Russian entry can be of benefit in speeding the day of complete victory at a saving of American lives.

There were expressions, however, that the Russian action at this time should not be considered the decisive factor.

The most direct comment along that line came from Sen. Alexander Wiley, R., Wis., who had demanded in a senate speech two weeks ago that Russia get into the war against Japan.

Wiley suggested that the first atomic bomb hurled against Japan last Sunday was a factor in the Russian decision.

"It is obvious that Russia's entry at this time will not have the decisive effect it might have had two weeks ago, before the atomic bomb was introduced," he commented.

"Apparently the atomic bomb which hit Hiroshima also blew Joe (Russian Premier Joseph Stalin) off the fence."

Wiley believed that Russia's action may "slightly help tip the scales" to force a Japanese surrender. He insisted, however, that the United States should take the position that:

"We are no more disposed now than before to reveal to Russia (and the world) our secrets on the atomic bomb at this time, even though she is our war ally again. Russia's late entrance should not dispose us to agree to territorial readjustments in Asia which would be inequitable and unjust. We must recognize that it was American blood, sweat and tears... which have brought us to the present point of near victory."

Sen. John L. McClellan, D., Ark., welcomed the Russian action but emphasized that Japan's defeat already was assured by the atomic bomb.

"The whole world, including the Japs, knows that the United States already has defeated Japan," McClellan said.

Clellan said, "With full use of the atomic bomb she can hardly last another 30 days, either with Russia in or out of the war. Russia's entry at this late date can never be regarded as the decisive factor in the final victory."

Sen. Sheridan Downey, D., Calif., suggested that the Russian decision "would have been great news six months ago." Since the atomic bomb development he found the Russian news merely "interesting."

Most other senators mentioned the destructive power of the atomic bomb in their comment on the Russian declaration.

Chairman Tom Connally, D., Tex., of the senate foreign relations committee, predicted the joint development would bring a speedy end to the Pacific war.

"Russia should be able to drive the Japanese out of the mainland of Asia," he said. "The atomic bomb and our navy will conquer the Japanese homeland."

Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney, D., Wyo., took a similar note.

"The entry of Russia, coming as it does after the revelation that we possess the atomic bomb should mean a speedy end of the war," O'Mahoney said. "It should and probably will render unnecessary the use of American troops on the mainland of Asia."

Sen. Tom Stewart, D., Tenn., called the twin developments "the best news since the war began."

Other comment:

Sen. Joseph H. Ball, R., Minn.—"The declaration means that the end of the war is reasonably near."

Sen. Dennis Chavez, D., N.M.—"I think the war will be shortened."

Sen. Arthur Capper, R., Kan.—"Russian entrance into the war probably means that Japan will collapse shortly."

EVENTS MOVE QUICKLY AFTER TRUMAN SPEAKS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9—War drama in Washington:

Scene 1—The White House press room. Time—2:40 p. m., Wednesday, August 8. Four or five newsmen lounging around chewing the fat; complaining about meatless lunches and half-cooked eggs. Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross sticks his head through the door. He says casually that President Truman will have an announcement to make at three o'clock. The reporters start guessing. Anyway, they call offices and ask for reinforcements.

Scene 2—In President Truman's oval-shaped office. Time—2:59 p. m. Reporters enter, walk up toward desk. President, playing with a big metal letter opener, says "howdy" to each. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes sits at Mr. Truman's left. He holds a pink typewritten sheet marked "top secret." Adm. William D. Leahy, on the right, with same kind of sheet. President stands up.

A WORLD ENDANGERED

THE last few days have been, perhaps the most tremendous that men have seen on this earth since God divided the light from the darkness, and separated the waters, and made man, and gave him light, and placed him in the Garden of Eden, where his tenure was all too short.

For many generations man has risen slowly above the brute. He has had an immense amount of things to learn—many of which, unfortunately, have had to do with warfare among his own kind. An appalling number of secrets have gone into such effort, man against man, so that it has often seemed doubtful whether the human race could survive. And finally has come the revelation of a secret hidden away in the Maker's workshop for untold ages, whereby the basic stuff of which the world was made—the material atom of matter which Nature has developed in countless forms for countless purposes—has been made to give up its secret.

So man at last begins to master atomic forms and adapt them to his own purposes. And what will come of it, no man knows.

But the world is filled with solemn warnings. Intelligent people begin to understand that unless the wise and righteous take this warring world in hand and subdue it to cooperative use, the race itself will be destroyed. And that would be an appalling loss: for so far as we know, this is the only human spot in the whole universe.

RECORD OF WAR

ONE of the unfair and unfortunate things about the first world war was that the Germans who started it suffered so little, comparatively, from the direct consequences. They were able to fight mostly on their neighbors' property, and they looted those same neighbors to keep the war machine going. But the last war was different.

Air power enabled the Allies this time to do their most effective fighting on the enemy's own soil; and the result has been a devastation, and a practical retribution, such as the world never saw before. The means, and the will to do it, were both at hand, and the result, or at least much of it, may stand as a monument and a warning for a thousand years.

Lieut. Col. Philip W. Porter, U. S. A., writing to his home paper, the Cleveland Plain Dealer, gives a vivid account of the present German picture as he has seen it. He finds it staggering and indescribable, whether seen from the air or from the ground. A first view of an industrial metropolis like Hamburg or Frankfort in ruins seems unreal; but when you have seen dozens of such sights, the real magnitude of the German disaster sinks into the observer's soul. It is so "complete and catastrophic" that it will take years merely to clean up the rubbish. Never in all history was there anything like it. And the feeling grows that much of this devastation should be left—especially the German part of it—for a lasting record and warning to all war-makers forever.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, August 9—The key to the Polish settlement at Potsdam was not found by the in-knowing crowd here to be in the chapter on that subject but was hidden or tucked in unobtrusively in the reparations provisions, to wit: (chapter IV, section 2.)

"The U. S. S. R. undertakes to settle the reparation claims of Poland from its own share of reparations."

In short, the German payments for damages to Allied Poland, the invasion of which brought Britain (but not Russia) into the war, are to be handled by Russia. The text of the chapter of the Polish political settlement expressed "pleasure" at the formation of the new Polish government, but no pleasure was mentioned at the abandonment of pretense in handling Poland's repayments due from having been a battle ground. When it came to the cash, Russia directly, and no doubt to her own exclusive pleasure, volunteered to handle that end, although she worded her authority rather graciously, as if she would take care of Poland out of what she would get anyway.

This is not the only, or the most important point of the Potsdam plan which has caused it to be received in congress and officialdom with what the British would call "reserve." The explanation offered here (in administration quarters) is that Truman was tied down by Yalta promises and had to permit what amounts to public recognition of Russian aggrandizement, and our official backing of them for the first time. (No wonder Moscow publicized the announcement.) Not that anyone is enthusiastically against it or for it, no strong political or other opposition is likely.

The German settlements (reparations and political) are rather generally agreed to be business-like, fair, enforceable. As far as the military wrote them, they are clear and precise. When the economists compared the economic parts, they were vague about some things (specifically where the 75 percent of industry goes from our zone, which Germany does not need and beyond the 25 percent which Russia does not get.) But these clearly purposed sections of the Potsdam plan will certainly make Germany a pastoral nation—or 3 national pastures, deindustrialized, but run by different herdsmen, one American, one British and one Russia, without slave labor.

The other European political settlements, however, attempted or forecast by specific mention, will have a hard time gaining champions here. They obtained largely passive acceptance by men who think not much otherwise could be done in existing circumstances. Thus the whole development has been received as if this corner of the world sat in a dim twilight, peering out at the rest of it, hopefully, but uncertainly, able to discern little ahead and not able to think of anything which could be done to clear the atmosphere.

"Perhaps," said one senator, "it is better to be in the twilight than in the dark."

What he and the others really felt, however, is that the United States faces a terrific task ahead in this kind of a world.

Their private information suggested Mr. Truman, for example, had saved Greece from the indefinite fall prescribed for Spain. As you know British Premier Attlee wished to reverse the Churchill policy for Greece, when a government to resist Russia and the small domestic communist group has been set up, and for Spain, where Churchill had been playing the Franco regime at long distance slyly to impede Russian control. A break-up in Greece to open the way for Stalin is expected to de-

Japanese Air Inactivity

Argentina One of Biggest Jobs Now Faced by Byrnes

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Brass hats in the Army and Navy have done a lot of speculating as to why Jap air power has not struck back at Allied sea-air raids against Japan. But the truth is that nobody knows outside the Japanese high command.

There are two main schools of thought in the services, and the result has been a great many lively arguments. One group contends that Jap air power is through. The other insists that the wily Japs are concentrating their air power for a grand suicide attack against the United States invasion fleet.

There is still a third school of thought which argues that, regardless of which contention is right, the result is proving disastrous to the Japs. In this group is Gen. George C. Kenney, who says that an air force on the ground is just like none at all.

American air power is growing by leaps and bounds, and it is now too late for the Japs to stage a comeback.

ONE OF THE FIRST JOBS which Secretary of State James F. Byrnes will have to tackle when he returns from Potsdam is the Argentine question. A showdown on United States relations with the South American republic seems to be in the cards.

There is a great deal of controversy within the State Department concerning the United States policy which supported Argentine entry into the company of nations signing the United Nations charter at San Francisco.

Byrnes will face the task of deciding whether the Cordell Hull

RECORD OF WAR

ONE of the unfair and unfortunate things about the first world war was that the Germans who started it suffered so little, comparatively, from the direct consequences. They were able to fight mostly on their neighbors' property, and they looted those same neighbors to keep the war machine going. But the last war was different.

Air power enabled the Allies this time to do their most effective fighting on the enemy's own soil; and the result has been a devastation, and a practical retribution, such as the world never saw before. The means, and the will to do it, were both at hand, and the result, or at least much of it, may stand as a monument and a warning for a thousand years.

Lieut. Col. Philip W. Porter, U. S. A., writing to his home paper, the Cleveland Plain Dealer, gives a vivid account of the present German picture as he has seen it. He finds it staggering and indescribable, whether seen from the air or from the ground. A first view of an industrial metropolis like Hamburg or Frankfort in ruins seems unreal; but when you have seen dozens of such sights, the real magnitude of the German disaster sinks into the observer's soul. It is so "complete and catastrophic" that it will take years merely to clean up the rubbish. Never in all history was there anything like it. And the feeling grows that much of this devastation should be left—especially the German part of it—for a lasting record and warning to all war-makers forever.

Japanese Air Inactivity | Argentina One of Biggest
Has Army, Navy Puzzled | Jobs Now Faced by Byrnes

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Brass hats in the Army and Navy have done a lot of speculating as to why Jap air power has not struck back at Allied sea-air raids against Japan. But the truth is that nobody knows outside the Japanese high command.

There are two main schools of thought in the services, and the result has been a great many lively arguments. One group contends that Jap air power is through. The other insists that the wily Japs are concentrating their air power for a grand surprise attack against the United States invasion fleet.

There is still a third school of thought which argues that, regardless of which contention is right, the result is proving disastrous to the Japs. In this group is Gen. George C. Kenney, who says that an air force on the ground is just like none at all.

American air power is growing by leaps and bounds, and it is now too late for the Japs to stage a comeback.

ONE OF THE FIRST JOBS which Secretary of State James F. Byrnes will have to tackle when he returns from Potsdam is the Argentine American republic seems to be in the cards.

There is a great deal of controversy within the State Department concerning the United States policy which supported Argentine entry into the company of nations signing the United Nations charter at San Francisco.

Byrnes will face the task of deciding whether the Cordon Hau

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, August 9—The key to the Polish settlement at Potsdam was not found by the in-knowing crowd here to be in the chapter on that subject but was hidden or tucked in unobtrusively in the reparations provisions, to wit: (chapter IV, section 2.)

The U. S. S. R. undertakes to settle the reparation claims of Poland from its own share of reparations.

In short, the German payments for damages to Allied Poland, the invasion of which brought Britain (but not Russia) into the war, are to be handled by Russia. The text of the chapter of the Polish political settlement expressed "pleasure" at the formation of the new Polish government, but no pleasure was mentioned at the abandonment of pretense in handling Poland's repayments due from having been a battle ground. When it came to the cash, Russia directly, and no doubt to her own exclusive pleasure, volunteered to handle that end, although she worded her authority rather graciously, as if she would take care of Poland out of what she would get anyway.

This is not the only, or the most important point of the Potsdam plan which has caused it to be received in congress and officialdom with what the British would call "reserve." The explanation offered here (in administration quarters) is that Truman was tied down by Yalta promises and had to permit what amounts to public recognition of Russian aggrandizement, and our official backing of them for the first time. (No wonder Moscow publicized the announcement.) Not that anyone is enthusiastically against it or for it, no strong political or other opposition is likely.

The German settlements (reparations and political) are rather generally agreed to be business-like, fair, enforceable. As far as the military wrote them, they are clear and precise. When the economists compared the economic parts, they were vague about some things (specifically where the 75 percent of industry goes from our zone, which Germany does not need and beyond the 25 percent which Russia does not get.) But these clearly purposed sections of the Potsdam plan will certainly make Germany a pastoral nation—or 3 national pastures, deindustrialized, but run by different herdsmen, one American, one British and one Russia, without slave labor.

The other European political settlements, however, attempted or forecast by specific mention, will have a hard time gaining champions here. They obtained largely passive acceptance by men who think not much otherwise could be done in existing circumstances. Thus the whole development has been received as if this corner of the world sat in a dim twilight, peering out at the rest of it, hopefully, but uncertainly, able to discern little ahead and not able to think of anything which could be done to clear the atmosphere.

"Perhaps," said one senator, "it is better to be in the twilight than in the dark." What he and the others really felt, however, is that the United States faces a terrific task ahead in this kind of a world. Their private information suggested Mr. Truman, for example, had saved Greece from the indefinite fall prescribed for Spain. As you know British Premier Attlee wished to reverse the Churchill policy for Greece, when a government to resist Russia and the small domestic communist group has been set up, and for Spain, where Churchill had been playing the Franco regime at long distance slyly to impede Russian control. A break-up in Greece to open the way for Stalin is expected to de-

Excessive Energy in Brain Cause of Epileptic Seizures

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

THE modern view on epilepsy is that it is a disease due to some disturbance of the electrical equilibrium of the brain. It has been possible by means of an electrical device to make tracings of the brain waves.

In epilepsy, according to Doctor Gerald Caplan of England from time to time an excessive amount of energy accumulates in the brain and the convulsion which occurs in epilepsy is the form in which this energy is discharged. In epilepsy, as you may know there is loss of consciousness together with convulsions or twitching and spasms of the muscles. These attacks may come on at any time and may occur at some awkward moment, for example, when a person is driving a car or working with a machine, and in such cases there may be some danger of injury.

Cause Unknown

The exact cause of epilepsy is not known. Various forms of treatment have been employed including rest, freedom insofar as possible from physical and mental strain, and the use of drugs such as phenobarbital and dilantin.

Doctor Caplan suggests the idea of replacing these convulsions which may come on at any time, by electrically-induced convulsions which can be brought on when desired. This form of treatment, he does not believe should replace the methods carried out at present in eleven instances the number of epileptic attacks was considerably reduced. In seven patients also who were showing signs of mental disturbances, these conditions also were benefited. No complications in any way alarming were noted.

In a few of the patients there was an increase in the frequency of attacks following the electrical treatment, but this did not last longer than the first month and then was followed by a reduction in the number of attacks. In some cases it was necessary to use the electrical treatment only once a week, since more frequent employment produced some mental confusion.

It would appear that this type of treatment may be a valuable aid in making the lives of persons with epilepsy more livable.

but might well be employed in addition to them.

He has tried the treatment on fifteen men who have been under treatment for periods ranging from three to nine months. The patients chosen were those having convulsions two or three times a month who were under treatment and with the drugs mentioned and who were in generally good physical condition. The convulsions were induced before breakfast either once or twice a week.

The convulsion produced lasts only a few moments, then is followed by a short period of unconsciousness. Finally, there may be a period of five to thirty minutes when the patient is somewhat confused mentally.

Mrs. Frank Turner Is Chairman For Affair

Approximately 85 members and guests of the Lutheran Ladies society of the Lutheran church, were present at a co-operative dinner, given at the country home of the Rev. G. L. Troutman and Mrs. Troutman, Wednesday.

The meeting was opened by group singing of "O Beautiful For Spacious Skies", followed with prayer with the Rev. Mr. Troutman. Another hymn was sung by the group.

A letter from Mrs. Henry Schuh, was read, concerning the Woman's Missionary Federation meeting to be held at Capital university, Sept. 6th and 7th. Mrs. Denny Pickens is the delegate and Mrs. James Carpenter the alternate.

Mrs. Ruth Troutman opened the program with two coronet solos, "Carry Me Back to Ole Virginia" and "Sailing".

Mrs. Mae Strous gave a reading entitled "Christian Workers", followed with Bible questions and answers. The program was concluded with group singing of hymns.

Mrs. Frank Turner was chairman of the picnic committee and she was assisted by Mrs. George Gerhardt, Mrs. Chester Wolfe, Mrs. Charles Beck, Miss Cora Henn, Mrs. Edward Wolf, Mrs. Scott Radcliff and Mrs. Marvin Rhodes.

Mr. Peters Presides At Grange Meeting

At the Nebraska Grange meeting Tuesday evening, the worthy master, Joseph Peters urged all to attend Pampa Grange, August 18, at Scioto Valley Grange. The lecturer, Mrs. Russell Hedges, told about the whittling contest, which is being sponsored, to stimulate new interest in grange work. Any subordinate grange member may enter this contest. The articles presented must be whittled out of one single piece of wood with no splices of any kind. The article must be completed and presented for lecturer's exhibit at the annual state grange session. Prize awards will be presented by the state lecturer, according to skill and workmanship and attractiveness.

The program was arranged by Archie M. Peters, his topic being, "School Days". For the opening number the entire grange sang "Drink to me Only With Thine Eyes". Winona Peters read an article, written by Rev. C. L. Thomas, telling about the first township high school in Ross County, started fifty-six years ago. The Rev. Mr. Thomas was the first teacher. This school was nicknamed "Corn Field College" because it was built in a corn field. Following this article, the Rev. Mr. Thomas told many interesting things about his school days.

Archie Peters told about the Madison Township high school, the first rural high school in the state of Ohio, which was opened Oct. 1, 1883. He related many interesting things about their course of study, and compared it with the system now used.

County superintendent, George McDowell, gave a talk about the school system today.

The lecturer announced that Clear Creek Valley Grange, at Amanda, would present the next program on August 21. This meeting will be held at Walnut twp. School.

Mrs. Glick Hostess To Sigma Phi Group

Mrs. David Glick, Route 3, Circleville, was hostess for the regular meeting of the Violet club of the Sigma Phi Gamma International sorority, Wednesday evening, at her home.

Arrangements were completed for the formal installation of the group. It was announced that it would take place at the Seneca hotel in Columbus, September 22 and 23.

Plans were made for a swimming party and covered dish supper, August 15, at Gold Cliff. Members are asked to meet at the home of Mrs. Rosemary Goodchild, at 6:30 p.m.

The next business meeting will be August 22 in the rooms of the Business and Professional Women's club in the Masonic Temple. Refreshments were served to the group at the close of the evening.

When Tallulah Bankhead developed a crack in her neck at the "Jerry Wayne Show" rehearsal last week, she murmured plaintively: "Is there an osteopath in the house?" RADIO NEWS NOTES

"Suspense," the thriller, really caused suspense in Washington last week. The program was just reaching its climax on the local station when a transmitter fuse blew out. For the next hour the station's switchboard was flooded with calls from fans who wanted to learn the ending of the story. The station's officials say the accident was better than any official survey in determining the vast number of listeners the program has there.

Francis X. Bushman, matinee idol of the 1911-1919 era, will portray the coveted role of "Nero Wolfe," super sleuth, on the Tuesday mystery series of the same name. In a series of last minute auditions, Bushman won the part over many other Hollywood radio actors.

Cass Daley, radio-film comedian, has been offered the mistress-of-ceremonies role on the Sunday "Bandwagon" airshow.

Unlike most radio programs, the Bob Burns show will return in October with exactly the same cast with which it wound up its run in June. Shirley Ross will provide the songs, Leo Gorcey the sillies and Burns the tall tales—a combination that clicked so well last year Burns had his most successful air season.

For the third time in less than two months Dinah Shore has won national poll conducted by Billboard Magazine. This time she's named the favorite female singer among college students, doubling the score of her nearest competitor. Earlier wins were among high school students and G.I.s.

The flags of five countries flew over parts of Wyoming before the Territory of Wyoming was created.

Ninth Annual South Central Rural Cooperative To Be Held At Lancaster Fairgrounds August 16

The ninth annual meeting of the members of the South-Central Rural Electric Cooperative, Inc. will be held at the Lancaster fair grounds Thursday, August 16, with H. Newell Stevenson, president, presiding.

The program, slated to begin at 10 a.m., will have wide appeal to the local citizens.

Several of the musical programs will be broadcast. Radio stations WLW and WOSU will broadcast from the meeting. WLW will broadcast "Everybody's Farm Hour," featuring Roy Battles, emcee, Carol McConaha, Earl Neal, Dolly Good and the Buccaneers. Miss Good and the Buccaneers will be the stars of the show. They are typed as a musical unit ranking with the best in diversified entertainment.

WOSU will broadcast the Ohio Farm and Home Hour and will feature Bill Zipf, MC, Ed Sprague, Jean Jackson, Mary Jane Orth and Miriam Foltz. The Sprague-Orth team will sing, with accompanying music furnished by Miss Jackson. Miriam Foltz plays the homecoming girl on the Farm and Home hour.

For the first time in nine years, local talent will have a place on the program. The five Welch Sisters will entertain with their group music. They are well known in Lancaster and Fairfield county.

DOLLY Good and the Buccaneers with Penny Woodford (above) will be one of the main attractions at the ninth annual meeting of the South-Central Rural Electric Co-operative, Inc., to be held at Lancaster fair grounds, Thursday, August 16. Dolly is the featured thrush, along with Larry Downing and Bill Thall. Miss Woodford is a noted accordianist.

The ladies aid of the Dumontville M. E. church will serve lunch at noon. Picnic lunches may also be carried for those who want them.

The tentative program for the day is 10 a.m. meeting called to order by H. Newell Stevenson; invocation by Rev. Walter P. Casto, pastor of the First Methodist church; report of the secretary-treasurer, George Ruble; musical selection, Welch Sisters; report of manager, Darwin Kindler; introduction of board of trustees and office personnel by the manager; vocal selection by Ed Sprague; lunch from 11:15 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. by the ladies aid; meeting called to order, 12:30 p.m. by H. Newell Stevenson; musical selection, Welch Sisters; Everybody's Farm Hour, WLW, 12:40 p.m.; Roy Battles, MC; Ohio Farm and Home Hour, WOSU, 1 p.m., Bill Zipf, MC; casting and collection of ballots; entertainment by the Buccaneers and Dolly Good, Penny Woodford, accompanist; announcement of election of trustees; vocal selection, Ed Sprague, Mary Jane Orth, and adjournment.

Officers of the co-op, which services much of Pickaway county, include Mr. Stevenson, Circleville, president; George Ruble, secretary-treasurer; Darwin Kindler, manager; William Griffith, vice-president; R. D. Head, C. F. Hesser, John Eaken, Dale Winegardner, Roy White and Guy Belt, trustees.

ONE-LEGGED WEISS, NAZI PARTY EDITOR, CAPTURED

MUNICH, Aug. 9—Third Army authorities revealed today that they have taken into custody Gen. Wilhelm Weiss, for 19 years editor of the Nazi party organ Voelkischer Beobachter, who qualifies both as a probable war criminal and potential witness in the Nuremberg war crimes trials.

The 54-year-old one-legged editor whose bitter pen incited thousands of Germans to race hatred faced his confinement calmly.

He declared that he had been on the inside of the Nazi party almost since its beginning in 1923 and the real power behind Hitler's throne was sinister Deputy Fuehrer Martin Bormann, who influenced heavily his chief's decisions.

HANFORD AND OAK RIDGE PRODUCTS ARE NOT ALIKE

RICHLAND, Wash., Aug. 9—Atomic bomb materials made here and at another hush-hush Army project at Oak Ridge, Tenn., are not identical, it was disclosed today.

Production of the new, terrifying atomic weapon would continue even if for some reason this project closed, officials said.

Col. Franklin T. Matthias, 37-year-old project director told newsmen there was no interdependence between the Hanford plant and its counterpart at Oak Ridge. Either could be discontinued without interruption to the program. Products are not identical, although the results are similar.
